JUNE/JULY 2017

Local winners in 2017 Built Environment Awards

The Whitehorse Council biennial Built Environment awards included brilliant ideas for sustainable living, and excellence in design, with clever and innovative ways to enhance our neighbourhoods and makes a positive contribution to the way we live. There are a range of categories, and this year the winners included two projects in our local area.

In the Single House – Renovated Dwelling category, the winner was a house in Windsor Crescent by Idle Architecture. The design intention for this project was to create a functional and beautiful family home with a strong indoor – outdoor connection both visually and functionally. This project involved the substantial remodelling of an existing California Bungalow and addition of a north facing living space. The California Bungalow was painstakingly and substantially reworked and continues to keep with the neighbourhood character.

The design intent includes: Respect the old building form while welcoming the new.; The use of a natural materials palette and curvilinear forms blend the renovation with the natural surrounds and native landscape; Include sustainable design principle such as maximizing natural light and ventilation, low water use, and grey water recycling; Retain the original dwelling to minimize embodied energy. Idle Architecture also designed the retail and residential apartment building in Union Road opposite the Neighbourhood Centre.

In the Commercial or Retail category, the winner was Mister + Miss Café at 713 Whitehorse Road Mont Albert, designed by Maria Danos Architecture.

Mister + Miss Café is an innovative, conceptually based, sustainably driven example of adaptively re-using an existing warehouse into a successful hospitality destination. The business injects 'life' into middle Whitehorse Road by activating a small commercial streetscape.

The former use of the site as Jatt Mechanics provided inspiration in the form of shapes, patterns and colours for the new use. The design intent includes: Provide a variety of seating and interaction options and spaces including communal tables, benches, courtyard, forecourts, cosy booths and function room; Activate the street frontage and make a connection with the community through planter boxes and a high level of amenity; Embrace the spatial volume of the warehouse by creating a sense of human scale.

This entry also won a Commendation in the Sustainability category. Environmental sustainability informed many design decisions including local design or fabrication of furniture, lighting and some fixtures. Upcycling of the existing building, retaining the existing party walls and concrete flooring, and using recycled timber contributed to the sustainability credentials of the project.

Kindilan celebrates 40 years

Kindilan, the well-known opportunity shop in Mont Albert, celebrates 40 years in Hamilton Street this year. Opening at number 11, then moving to number 46 it has been at its present location, number 9, the old milk bar, since 1984. It raises funds to supplement government funding for Focus (formerly Kindilan), a centre for the intellectually disabled on the Mornington Peninsula. Focus has grown from a residential and day centre in Red Hill catering for 36 clients to now providing support for more than 160 clients. It now has six residential houses on the original property at Red Hill, and 10 others on the peninsula. Five community support centres provide day programs and support clients to go out to activities in the community.

There is an outreach program which supports individuals in their own homes and the community. Respite programs have also been established. In addition, Focus has a holiday home in Dromana which is available for rent to families with a disabled member. Focus is able to provide staff to support the disabled member, while other family members can have time away from the responsibility of caring. Proceeds from the op shop have contributed greatly to making all this possible.

Originally started and managed by parents, many of whom lived in the eastern suburbs, the shop now has the very loyal support of local residents. Currently there are more than 100 volunteers - a number of the original volunteers came from Holy Trinity in Union Road, and some of their members still volunteer. The manager of the shop is the daughter of one of the original volunteers. Without the very generous support of the local community – donors, volunteers and customers the shop would not be the success it is today. Only two of the original parents are still involved.

As well as the usual recycled goods found in opportunity shops, Kindilan is known for its selection of greeting cards and also for its honey. People who would not normally shop in an opportunity shop come in for these special items. So, do visit the shop, celebrate the 40 years – and you are sure to find something you didn't know you needed!

Music Festival gearing up!

Dust off those dancing shoes and get ready for a shimmy shaking, rip snorting, groovin' and a movin' time as this year's Surrey Hills Music Festival gears up! Melissa Chipp, our new Festival Director, is busy chasing down the most fabulously talented, old and new, musicians and performers in town for what promises to be another fantastic festival.

The Festival will run from Friday 17 to Sunday 19 November, but there will be several fantastic events in the leadup. There is a rumour that a famous comedian and Melbourne music identity will be involved in the Festival this year ... so watch this space for more details, or go to the website www.surreyhillsmusicfestival.com to keep up to date. The Festival will also host the inaugural Choir-off, to decide, once and for all, which school has the best junior school choir in Surrey Hills! (contact our office if your school would like to be involved).

So please don't be shy! If you want to get on board the fun fast-paced juggernaut that is the Surrey Hills Music Festival, give the office a call. All volunteers are welcome. Without them our Festival wouldn't be what it is. They are often the ones having the most fun! The Festival would also like to hear from businesses who are interested in becoming a Festival sponsor. What business wouldn't want to partner with such a positive community based event? Please give Melissa a call to discuss our generous sponsorship packages. Or just visit the website and book yourself into a lead-up event or just come along to the Festival – its FREE!

Phone Melissa on 0438 001 933, email on musicfestival@surreyhillsnc.org.au or drop in to see her at the Neighbourhood Centre on Tuesday or Wednesdays. Keep visiting our website at www.surreyhillsmusicfestival.com for updates.

Surrey Hills Music Festival

The Surrey Hills Music Festival is well underway with the appointment of this year's Music Director, Melissa Chipp.

Melissa has over 20 years experience in event management and marketing for a variety of non-profit organisations including working as a senior events manager for two Melbourne Food and Wine Festivals. She was also the Director of Stories Up High, the Dandenong Ranges Children's Writers Festival.

We are also delighted that we have received another three years' funding from the City of Boroondara. This funding helps to subsidise the many costs associated with running such an event that requires the hire and erection of equipment such as staging, lighting and sound, hire of halls, as well as paying the many musicians and artists who perform at the Festival.

The Festival continues to grow each year and with the support of the many people who attend and importantly, volunteers to help us run it, we are reminded of the strong community around us.

Volunteers 'thank you' lunch

All our volunteers are very warmly invited to our annual volunteers 'thank you' lunch on Friday 14 July. Invitations will go out shortly but in the meantime we are happy to receive any RSVPs for catering purposes!

Healthy communities

I was very lucky to be able to attend a fantastic conference recently called Communities in Control. This conference brings together all the not-for-profits so it was a great opportunity to network with other organisations and hear from some amazing speakers including Andrew Denton, Professor Chris Sarra, Richard Dennis and an amazing young man Ben Pettingill.

One theme of the conference that I found very relevant was the importance of seeing people without the distractions of culture, disability or gender. Ben Pettingill said he found 'true vision' only after he lost 98% of his eyesight. Professor Sarra talked about building high expectations relationships. Social researcher Rebecca Huntley talked about why we should feel optimistic about Australia and its people, and suggested that migrants and other newly arrived people might be more reliable at providing unique and perceptive commentary, largely complementary, about our society. I felt that a lot of what we try to do here at the Neighbourhood Centre is to see people's core humanity and build relationships and partnerships around us to help people deliver their own outcomes.

I recommend you go to www.communitiesincontrol.com.au to find out more and listen to the speakers.

School backpack tips for your child's health

Dr Rachel Murphy

My Masters Degree in Osteopathy and Masters in Clinical Nutrition, and extensive experience in Children's and Women's health, has led me to be passionate about connecting the community through optimising health. Here are my top five tips to choose the best backpack and avoid injury to your child:

1. Wide padded shoulder straps (5-6cm wide), and lightweight material with reflective details for safety visibility. Backpack should be no more than 15% of child's body weight when full.
2. Both shoulder straps must be worn to aid well-aligned symmetrical posture, and multiple compartments distribute weight towards child's spine to enable most comfort without muscle tension.
3. A padded back, with internal structural support if possible, minimises direct pressure on the spine. Encourage your child to always bend their knees when lifting their pack, to minimise twisting strain.
4. Correct size selection is vital – the base of the backpack should be no lower than the top of your child's pelvis. Top of the backpack should be no higher than shoulder height.
5. Load heaviest items closest to the spine. Arrange books, tech-device, and lunchbox at the back to avoid spinal joint pain.

If your child does experience pain, consult with your children's health provider taking the backpack to the consultation, to be professionally informed on the best backpack fit to support your child's growth and development long-term.

I established the Children's Wellness Group in Surrey Hills as a family and paediatric allied health clinic. Encore Health community education workshops, provide practical education on topics such as: growth and development; nutrition; movement; sleep; immune, brain and gut health. The Children's Wellness Group provides the following services for all ages: Osteopathy; Naturopathy; Nutrition; Remedial Massage, Pregnancy Massage & Myotherapy; Chiropractic; Lactation Consultant; Community Education Seminars.

YMCA brings Playnasium to Boroondara

In celebration of National Families Week in May, YMCA Victoria brought 'Playnasium' to the City of Boroondara. Playnasium is an innovative new way to be active that brings 'playtime' to 'gym time', so that parents/carers and kids can have fun and be active together. Playnasium transforms regular gym machines by turning the weight of your child, into your weights, so they can play whilst you get a workout. With YMCA staff on hand to demonstrate how the Playnasium can be used, many parents took the opportunity to get some exercise and engage with their children at the same time. The two pieces of Playnasium equipment on display was the popular Peek A Boo; designed to work the parent's shoulders and chest and the Row, Row, Row; designed to target the muscles in the back, legs and core. For more information contact Area Manager for YMCA, Nathan Costin on at vicoffice@ymca.org.au or phone 9403 5000.

'Keep cups' come to Surrey Hills?

The ABC has captured many people's imagination with its 'War on Waste' series, a serious but humorous attempt to focus our minds on just how much environmentally damaging and costly waste we take for granted. This applies to our local neighbourhood as much as anywhere, and now a group of active local coffee drinkers are talking with traders about how they can help us reduce waste by taking our reusable cups to our many coffee shops, as well as other measures they might take.

But there is much more to reducing waste than just coffee cups. If you are using effective waste-reducing measures, you might like to share the ideas with other Neighbourhood News readers. Send a few words, and perhaps a photo, to wchandler@bigpond.com no later than 8 August for publication in the next edition.

Still waiting for 40kph in Union Road?

Despite waiting for two decades for approval from VicRoads, there is still no word from Boroondara Council as to when they will implement the 40kph speed limit in the Union Road Shopping Centre. In the meantime, the centre continues to thrive, but the safety issue remains.

Renew your parking permit online

All residential parking permits across Boroondara will be renewed in June for the 2017/19 period. Your new permit will be mailed to you. If you have moved, you will need to reapply to get the correct permit in your new residential street using the online form on www.boroondara.vic.gov.au/parking-permits. If you have a new car and require a specific vehicle permit, please update your details with us to receive a permit for the correct vehicle.

Existing permits will no longer be valid after 30 June 2017. If you don't receive your permits in June, please contact Council early in July to arrange for replacement permits. For more information phone 9278 4444 or email boroondara@boroondara.vic.gov.au.

New Domestic Animal Management Plan

Whitehorse community members are invited to contribute to Council's new Domestic Animal Management Plan being compiled for the next four years, 2017-2021. Many community members are impacted by domestic animals kept throughout Whitehorse, so all people are welcome to contribute their thoughts, not just pet owners. Domestic animals bring many benefits, and Council knows pets are often beloved members of a family. They also offer companionship and the chance for owners to socialise and get out and about in Whitehorse's many parks and open spaces.

A Domestic Animal Management Plan covers such things as responsible animal ownership; pets in open spaces; cat curfews; desexing; registration; education and much more. The State Government requires all councils to prepare and implement a Domestic Animal Management Plan every four years, and the public consultation in Whitehorse will allow Council to discover what the community feels is important regarding this topic. The plan provides a practical framework for animal management, putting in place measures that protect pets, their owners and the wider community, while acknowledging the many ways pets enhance life in Whitehorse. The first step in this consultation process is to complete an online survey. To see full survey details, visit www.whitehorse.vic.gov.au/Animal-Management-Plan.html. The survey is open until Friday 30 June 2017.

Whitehorse Art Collection celebrates 90 years

'90 x 90' is an incredible retrospective exhibition of artworks obtained over the past 90 years and is currently on display at Whitehorse Artspace. The City of Whitehorse's art collection is a significant community, cultural and educational resource for all those living, working or spending time in Whitehorse. Visitors to this professionally curated exhibition will enjoy ceramics, paintings, sculpture, textiles and works on paper. Whether you're a history buff, art lover or simply curious about this outstanding art collection, it is sure to delight.

'90 x 90' contrasts contemporary and historical artworks, showcasing the evolution of the art collection. It runs until 17 June 2017. Established in 1927 with the public subscription of a portrait by Melbourne artist Ernest Buckmaster, the collection has grown to almost 1,700 artworks. Whitehorse City Council owns and manages the collection on behalf of the community, and many of the items within the collection have been received as donations. The collection comprises works by significant artists of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, as well as contemporary works by living artists.

The enduring theme of the landscape will be showcased in this exhibition by members of the Box Hill Artists Camp, including works by Tom Roberts, Frederick McCubbin, Camilla Tadich, Philip Davey, Neville French and Jill Symes. For further details visit the Whitehorse Artspace website <http://tinyurl.com/y9kqyahc>

Exhibit your art!

Box Hill Community Arts Centre (BHCAC) is seeking expressions of interest from artists wishing to exhibit works in its light-filled professional gallery in 2018. The gallery in the award-winning BHCAC building comes equipped with a hanging system, display cabinets, professional lighting and an adjoining lounge/kitchen area. Admission to the gallery is free and approximately 1,600 people pass through the BHCAC each week, ensuring a wide audience for exhibitions and great exposure for artists.

Artists interested in exhibiting in the BHCAC gallery should complete an Exhibition Application Pack 2018. To receive the Application Pack, visit the BHCAC office at 470 Station Street, Box Hill, phone 9895 8888 or download it from www.bhcac.com.au/whats-on/exhibitions

Four-year-old Chloe Cormack from Surrey Hills was the happy winner of Ross-Hunt Real Estate's Mothers' Day Art Competition. Budding artists were invited to celebrate their mothers with a creation in any medium. Ross-Hunt Real Estate GM, Alex Starr, pictured on left, said Chloe's collage was a clear winner. Mother Nicole, holding baby brother Josh, will be treated to a pamper pack with local products and a voucher from a Union Road beauty parlour.

Patsy Cline's story shines at the Whitehorse Centre

Lovers of musicals will be treated to an unforgettable evening of entertainment when Always... Patsy Cline comes to the Whitehorse Centre in June. This addition to the Whitehorse Centre's professional theatre season is a tribute to the legendary country singer and a riveting true story.

The production, created by Ted Swindley and starring the talented duo of Courtney Conway and Mandi Lodge, is based on Patsy's friendship with fan, Louise Seger. The singer's music has stood the test of time and 27 of her songs are woven into this story.

Cline's relationship with Seger began in 1961 and continued via correspondence until Cline's tragic death in a plane crash in 1963. The musical, complete with down-home country humour, deep emotion, and even some audience participation, includes Patsy's well-known hits Crazy, I Fall to Pieces, Sweet Dreams and Walking After Midnight. The show's title was inspired by Cline's letters to Seger, which were consistently signed off "Love always... Patsy Cline."

Friday 23 June, 8.00pm and Saturday 24 June, 2.00pm and 8.00pm. Whitehorse Centre, 397 Whitehorse Road, Nunawading (behind the Civic Centre). Bookings and more details: Box Office Monday-Friday 10.00am-4.30pm, phone 9262 6555 or visit www.whitehorsecentre.com.au
